The population of our city was depleted by July 75 on Friday night. Word had been received that every one was invited to a donation and chicken pie supper at the town hall at Newport Center. This was a Methodist doing and aroused the interest of many. Some went in single teams, and one double team left from the Methodist church carrying the good people, who preferred to travel in a class by themselves to retain their reputation. About 25 prim people of the upper class went on the Air Line and some returned on the local, others on the late train. Then there was the "Jolly Bunch" who left in a double team from Humphrey's store, each with an appetite of his or her own. The team was over full but every one was in good spirits, from the little couple in the back end, who enjoyed each other's company behind the big muffs, and were not disturbed by the noisy crowd. The wind blew a gale and the journey was slow. However in due season we were all seated at the tables where chicken pie was set before us. This was followed by pies of all kinds, cakes, doughnuts and coffee. Then came the literary program, consisting of songs, readings and tableaux. Some of the city's choicest talent had been induced to supplement that of the Center. A long pause was followed by the advent of the city's male quartette, who had been out on a prolonged ramble over the village for no one knew what. The minister was the first of the quartette to appear, evidently having reformed from his wicked way and by his example led back the other three, each one having a guilty appearance. However we were glad of their return, as their selections were good, and it would never have done to return to Newport city without them. After all was over and the younger set who came in teams had been sent home on the late train, being provided with money to pay to the conductor the required fee, and each one explaining to him that they were unable to purchase a ticket at the station as the ticket agent belonged to the eight hour men. After about 35 had said this the conductor drew a long breath and cried out Newport. All of the Newport crowd got off. The remainder of the party that made up the two double teams started on their long trip homeward, arriving before daylight, a wiser and fuller crew. The sum of $123 was added to the church treasury as a result of the supper.

Mrs. George Howe of Orleans visited her sister, Mrs. N. L. Foster, the latter part of last week.

Charles Taylor and daughter, Barbara, of Beecher Falls, called on friends in the city last week. Barbara remaining here while Mr. Taylor made a business trip to Montreal.

Newport talent are to appear in a minstrel show to be staged in Lane's Opera House in the near future, the proceeds from same are to go into the honor roll fund.

Dr. G. H. Newland met with quite a painful accident last week, when a large stick of wood fell from the top of a pile, landing on his foot and badly jamming same. The Dr. is able to attend to the office work.

Mrs. Harry Harvey of Lyndonville was a guest of Mrs. B. T. Webb, on Wednesday.

Over 200 people of all ages gathered in the assembly room of the Methodist church to enjoy an "unusually good time on Wednesday evening. Nearly all were dressed in an unusual way.

Old maids and matrons renewed their youth by dressing as fair damsels of 14. Men in blouses and knickerbockers played unusual pranks of 40 years ago. Even the minister looked unusually good when he entered dressed in his Sunday best but on removal of this garb another suit was disclosed which would have done justice to any farmer, and his wife was a sweet little miss of four summers with a dolly, who could cry. She was kept quiet by a lolly-pop, proudly displayed.

An unusually fine solo by Miss Phillips, accompanied by Miss Annis, was one redeeming quality of the entertainment.

The Ukele Girls received much applause and Tom Lynch gave a reading entitled "The Christening" with several accompaniments. Unusually fine apple pie was served with whipped cream. This, with doughnuts and coffee completed an unusual evening and $35 was credited to the treasury of the Ladies' Aid.

The literary part of the program consisted of the harmonious rendition of the Star Spangled Banner by the entire company. Then came a lullaby by four little tots, after which "Impersonator Missed His Calling Downey took the part of a cream separator, a parrot, a squirrel, a wheezy buck-saw and many other things which will assure his success in this line of work. Jane Willis spoke a piece, and Mrs. Clark as Printer, assisted by the Printer's Devil, read the Church Weekly, which copy was somewhat denuded by sickness of office force and reporters. However the alpha-

Sickness once more visits the Lawson family, this time it is Mrs. William Lawson, who was taken sick Sunday night, making seven under one roof.

J. F. Lambert left Sunday night for Alabama, Ga., and other states in the south, in the interest of the National Wrapping Machine Co. He expects to be absent about a month.

Orleans county court opened at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon at which time Attorney Frank Thompson of Barton made the first plea for the plaintiff, followed by Attorney E. A. Cook of Lyndonville, for the defendant. Court then took a recess until 2 o'clock today, when Attorney Dane of Boston and Searle, of St. Johnsbury will close the arguments, and with the judge's charge the case will go to the jury. The case has attracted a great deal of interest, the court room being crowded each day.

Thionville, Lorraine,
Dec. 1, 1918.

Mr. C. E. Tetreault,
82 Pleasant St.,
Newport, Vt.

Dear father:

From the time we left the States until now we have not been allowed to say anything excepting that we were alive and well or sick, as the case might be.

But now we are allowed to say a few more things. That is, we can give a few dates and what we have done and the place in which it took place together with a few details.

Well, father, I will profit of the occasion to say a few things that I have experienced in the past six months.

First, we sailed from New York, May the 6th, on the British Merchant Ship, "Moldavia." This was on a Monday, about noon, arriving at Halifax two days later where we stayed at the dock until Saturday noon when we started across on our seventeenth day on the water, (May 23) at the entrance of the English Channel we were aroused at 2.40 a. m., when the ship was torpedoed. There was great excitement for about two minutes, then all went on deck to wait for the orders to lower life boats and rafts. The moment the ship was struck it was reared towards shore, both to avoid another hit and to try to reach land. Twenty minutes later the water had reached the engine room and stopped the engines and we were still about 14 miles from shore. The life-boats and rafts were then lowered on, luckily, still waters and we floated around for about a half hour, then boarded submarine destroyers which had accompanied us for two days. We remained near the Moldavia until it had sunk out of sight, then we were headed for Dover, England, where we arrived at 12 noon and remained there in a large hotel for two weeks.

From Dover we crossed the Channel to Calais, France. The first two nights we got another taste of war in a different form. This was by German airplanes dropping bombs in the city and near the camp.

After remaining in Calais about 10 days, we were sent to Ussy-sur-Marne passing through Paris. Here we remained until the end of July. On the 3rd we went to Paris.

It seemed as if French civility came to Paris soldiers and walked on to along the pari.

Paris we stayed in the Grand Palais. We had the afternoon and all night to enjoy the gentleness of the French.

Leaving Paris on the 5th of July, we went back to Lizy; and on the 18th of July we were up at the front at Courtchamps, near Chateau Thierry. The 22nd, we went back into reserve and on the 4th of August went back to the front at Fismes, on the Vesle River between Soissons and Chateau Thierry, where I was wounded by a shrapnel and sent to a hospital at Mars-sur-Alliers, near Nevers, Nièvre; from hospital to convalescent camp at St. Agnan via Bourges and to another replacement camp at St. Dizier via Tours, Blois, Orleans and Troyes. From St. Dizier I rejoined my company at Ramport in time to go to the front with them near Verdun, Sept. 25, 1918, where we took Montfaucon and drove back the enemy about ten miles. We were relieved Oct. 23 and have been hiking over a hundred miles since, till we reached this place for occupation, and we expect to go home soon.

The next letter I write to you may contain a few details about the way we amused ourselves at the front.

The 4th Division, (to which I belong,) has received salutations from General Pershing.

Have you received a book from Paris, from Stars and Stripes Press, entitled the "Yanks"? It is a book of stories written by members of the A. E. F. in France.

Well, I think that I have told you all except that I am in perfect health and hope that you and the rest of the family are also.

Hoping to hear from you soon, I remain,

Your loving son,
